

No less than 489 Cases of Arbitrary Arrest Recorded in November 2016

Report contents

I. Introduction and Methodology

II. Details

- Arbitrary Arrests by Government Forces (Army, Security, Local Militias, Foreign Shiite Militias)
- Arbitrary Arrests by Self-management Forces (Consisting Primarily of the Democratic Union Party forces – a branch for the Kurdistan Workers' Party)
- Arbitrary Arrests by Extremist Islamic Groups
- Arbitrary Arrests by Armed Opposition Factions
- Releases from the Different Detention Centers
- Raids and Inspection Points that Resulted in Detention
- Abductions by Unidentified Parties

III. Most Notable Cases of Arbitrary Arrest in November

IV. Recommendations

I. Introduction

The detainees issue hasn't seen any noticeable progress even though it was included in the "Cessation of Hostilities" statement. Regarding that issue in particular, we recommend the following:

1- Arbitrary arrests must be ceased immediately as it is still an ongoing concern according to SNHR's monthly report. All detainees' fates must be revealed and their families' right to visit them must be insured immediately as well.

2- All detainees who were detained for merely exercising their political and civil rights must be released unconditionally. The use of women and children as war hostages must be stopped and they all must be released.

3- Grant the Independent international monitors of the Independent International Commission of Inquiry on the Syrian Arab Republic, which was established by the UN, and the International Committee of the Red Cross access to all official and non-official detention centers without setting up any prior arrangements or any restrictions or conditions.

4- A UN committee should be formed to see to the release of the detainees periodically and per a timetable that must be presented by all the detaining parties and mainly government forces that are detaining 99% of all the detainees.

Methodology

The ongoing and daily process of documenting detainees comes with additional challenges for SNHR that have been documenting detainees since 2011. One of these most notable challenges is the families' reluctance to cooperate and reveal any information on their family members' arrest even secretly and especially if the arrested individual was a female due to a prevalent notion among the Syrian society that doing so would result in more torture and risks. Instead, the families try to negotiate with security forces that usually blackmail these families and demand a cash payment that can amount to thousands of dollars in some cases. Despite the fact that SNHR possesses lists of more than 117,000 detainees, including children and women, it should be noted that we estimate that the actual number of detainees have exceeded 215,000; 99% of them are being detained mainly by government forces.

The international community's and the United Nations', in all of its organs, failure to apply pressure on the Syrian authorities to release even one case (including those whose sentences are over), and even prisoners of conscience, affirmed that convention within the Syrian society which believes that it is useless to cooperate in the documentation process. Most of the releases were part of exchange deals with the armed opposition.

The Syrian government denies that it made any arrests or executed any abductions when asked by the detainees' families. SNHR obtains most of the information from former detainees.

All the documented detainees in November were arrested without a warrant, which has become a norm and a methodology in 99.9% of the arrests made by government forces in all of its organs and entities (army, security forces, local militias, foreign militias). In all of the many interviews we conducted with thousands of prisoners since 2011, we have never heard of an arrest warrant or a cause. Most of the arrests are either through breaking doors and arresting people from their homes or at checkpoints in the streets. Apparently, government forces follow this method in order to wipe off any evidence that might hold them responsible for these arrests and the torture, physical violence, extrajudicial killing, and the other crimes and violations that follow.

Also, government forces don't allow 99.9% of the detainees to contact a lawyer, their families, or anyone. The people who perpetrate these crimes, or other crimes, have never been punished by government forces and no case involving that have been recorded. Instead, government authorities, itself, encourage and protect the people who perpetrate these crimes.

SNHR has recorded that no less than 117,000 individuals have been arrested since March 2011 (99% have been arrested by government forces) these number don't include prisoners of a criminal background and include arrests cases that are based on the internal armed conflict and mainly due to the opposition activity against the ruling authorities.

The mounting number of arrests is due to a number of reasons:

- Many arrested individuals weren't arrested because of a crime they committed, but because of their relatives' involvement with armed opposition factions or because they provided humanitarian aids.
- Most of the arrests are being conducted randomly and involve people who weren't involved in the popular protests, relief, or even military activity.
- Thousands of detainees are still being detained by the Syrian regime even though a judicial order for their release was issued despite the bureaucracy, corruption, slowness, and limpness that the Syrian judiciary suffers from.
- Government forces control densely populated cities such as the main central cities and it continue to practice its systematic policies of arbitrary arrests against the civilians of these areas.
- There are many government forces-affiliated entities that are authorized to make arrests, many of these entities make arrests without checking with government forces or the judicial authorities to which these entities are affiliated. Also, these entities have its own list of detention centers that are not subject to any judicial supervision. The detainees inside these detention centers are not being treated in accordance with the stated Syrian laws.
- A great number of cases are driven by blackmails or sectarian grudges especially in unstable areas that are not held by a specific faction or it is undergoing a power struggle. As a result, many armed militias that have emerged can't be monitored as they don't answer to any particular group.

Details about detainees can be found through the search engine on SNHR website, you may also add the name and details of any detainee and the concerned team will check the data and upload it if proved accurate.

II. Report Details

Arbitrary arrests made in November were notable for government forces' almost daily raiding and arrest campaigns that involved civilians in the main neighborhoods of Damascus, Aleppo, and Hama cities. The arrests made in Damascus focused on the age group 18-42 for the purpose of conscription while government forces targeted the families of activists and armed opposition fighters in Hama and Aleppo.

In addition, government carried out widespread arrests that involved civilians fleeing to Lebanon as they are passing the border crossings to Lebanon. These arrests included especially civilians from Damascus suburbs governorate cities that are out of government forces' control such as Al Zabadani, Madaya, Douma, and Al Mu'damiyea.

Furthermore, ISIS continues to enforce its policy of arbitrary arrests against civilians in its areas. The arrests included those who violated the organization's forcibly-imposed regulations, owners of phone shops, internet cafes, money exchange shops and civilians who are trying to flee ISIS-held areas to areas under the control of armed opposition.

In contrast, Self-management forces also continue its policy of arbitrary arrests and enforced-disappearance against civilians and political and media activists who oppose its views in its areas. The arrests were concentrated in Al Hasakeh city and Ifreen city in the suburbs of Aleppo governorate in addition to expanded arrest campaigns for the purpose of conscription that centered in Al Qamishli, in the suburbs of Al Hasakeh governorate, and Ifreen.

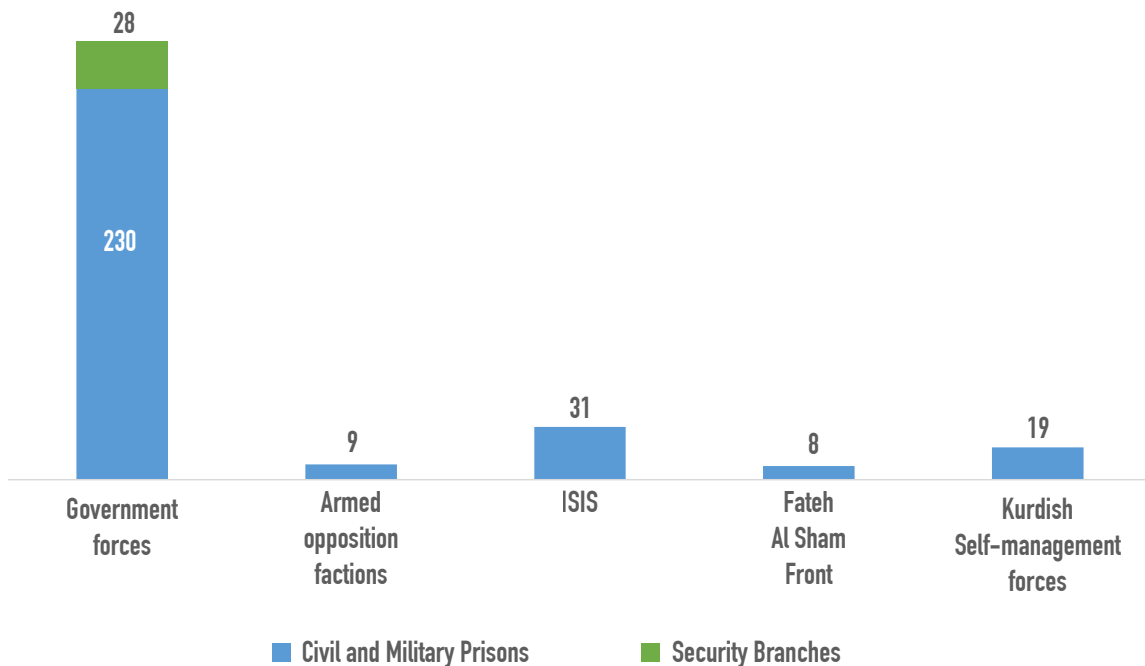

The following table illustrates the distribution of arrest cases that we were able to record in November. This what we were able to record which is the minimum, due to security and logistic restriction.

Releases from the various detention centers were as follows:

Raids and inspection points that resulted in detention:

Parties responsible for raids

Abduction cases by unidentified groups:

I. Most Notable Cases of Arbitrary Arrest in November

Government forces

(Name is undisclosed for security reasons), female, from Hama city, 42-year-old, she was arrested by Military Security forces, affiliated to government forces, after they raided her place of residence in Al Qosour neighborhood in Hama city on Wednesday 30 November 2016. She was taken to the Military Security branch in Hama city. Her fate is still unknown to SNHR as well as her family.

(Name is undisclosed for security reasons), female, from Al Zabadani city in Damascus suburbs governorate, an Arabic teacher, 31-year-old, she was arrested by government forces in Damascus city, where she displaced, on Tuesday 29 November 2016. She was taken to an undisclosed location. Her fate is still unknown to SNHR as well as her family

Self-management forces (Primarily consisting of Democratic Union Party forces, a branch for the Kurdistan Workers' Party)

Hawwas Akid, from Al Malikiya city in the suburbs of Al Hasakeh governorate, a member of the Kurdish Reform Movement (Tevgera Çakaszî Kurdî - Sûriya) and the political body of the National Coalition of Revolutionary and Opposition Forces. On Monday 28 November 2016, he was arrested by the Self-management forces from his place of residence in Al Malikiya city and taken to an undisclosed location. His fate is still unknown to SNHR as well as his family.

Majdal Haj Qasem, from Krankou town in the suburbs of Al Hasakeh governorate, born in 1975, member of the Kurdish party Yek Dem. On Sunday 27 November 2016, he was arrested by Self-management forces (Primarily consisting of the Democratic Union Party forces – a branch for the Kurdistan Workers' Party) who raided his place of residence in Krankou town and took him to an undisclosed location. His fate is still unknown to SNHR as well as his family.

Unidentified groups

Amal Yahya Al Hmiedi, female, from Idlib suburbs, a housewife, 31-year-old, she was abducted and forcibly-disappeared from Al Ansari neighborhood in Aleppo city at the hands of unknown armed men on Saturday 5 November 2016. Her fate is still unknown to SNHR as well as her family.

Sajea' Salha, male nurse, from As-Swuyida governorate, a nurse at a dispensary in Shahba area in As-Suwyida governorate. On Saturday 5 November 2016, unknown armed men shot the ambulance that was transporting him on the road between Lahtha and Al Mtouna in the suburbs of As-Suwyida governorate and abducted him. He was set free on Saturday 26 November 2016 after his family paid a large sum of money.

IV.Recommendations

- 1- Security Council must monitor the implementation of the following resolution: Resolution 2042, adopted on 14 April 2012, Resolution 2043, adopted on 21 April 2012, and Resolution 2139, adopted on 22 February 2014 which states that the crime of enforced-disappearance must be ceased.
- 2- The United Nations and the international community must uphold their responsibilities with respect to hundreds of thousands of detainees and forcibly-disappeared individuals in Syria.

