

Statement

Arresting Doctors is a Systematic Policy, the Arrest of Medical Student Ghofran Zouri

More violations are committed against the Syrian university students in general and the students of Aleppo University in particular. Many students from Aleppo University are being detained in the Syrian Intelligence' prisons and their families cannot check on them or even know their whereabouts.

Ghofran Zouri:

A medical student which in the eyes of the government is an another reason to arrest her. One of the many government checkpoints scattered had arrested her. Her family could not visit her or contact her due to government forces as government forces denied their request denial of their request. The checkpoint is affiliated with the Air Intelligence in Aleppo city, according to local sources.

Ghofran Mohamad Zouri

Date of birth: 1992

A third-year medical student at Aleppo University

Date of arrest: 19 December 2012

SNHR condemns the arrest of the student Ghofran which can be considered a blatant violation and an example of targeting of university students by the regime over their position. We demand that her fate and the fate of all detained university students must be revealed immediately. Also, we urge the international community and their formal and informal humanitarian organizations to uphold their responsibility in maintaining the security and lives of the Syrian youth whom the task of building the future of Syria falls upon.
